

Description and History

Tucked away among the rugged peaks of the Cascade Mountains, where the tumbling rumbling North Fork of the Skykomish River hurries by, is a quiet, comfortable and friendly resort known as Garland Mineral Springs. For many years these warm springs have caused folks to gather to drink their mineral waters and enjoy relaxing baths. Before the white man claimed this territory for himself, the Indians used to gather here for the healthful waters.

Tall, dark trees, clear mountain streams, beautiful long falls of water, wild yellow violets, roses, trillium form a verdant setting for the graceful deer, the shaggy mountain goat and the brown bear. The friendly little chipmunks, the shy rabbits, the noisy robins and dainty humming birds are local residents.

The fourteen miles to the springs is a scenic drive of everchanging beauty. From the springs, inviting paths and challenging trails lure the hiker onward and upward. For the brave-hearted and sure-footed, pea green Lake Blanca and Columbia Glacier offer their particular rewards. All this God has provided for those who take time to come apart and rest awhile.

Because God has created all the earth and because He has providentially placed this Forty Acres in our hands, we have dedicated it to His use and purposes. My sister-in-law, Laura Mae Mooney, my wife Medora and I earnestly desire that those who visit with us here will find rest, health and a personal knowledge of our Lord.
